Conscious Discipline – Christina Tuccillo

Conscious Discipline

Safe. Connection. Problem Solving.

Conscious Discipline

What is it?

- Based on neuro science
- Evidence-based and trauma informed
- 7 Powers, Skills, and Structures for self regulation
- Building safe and connected class families
- Adult first intervention and student outcome

7 Skills of Discipline

Creating the School Family

7 Powers of Conscious Adults

The Brain State

WHOA!

Let's shift from "making them behave" to modeling the desired behavior by giving them the skills to be successful.
Dr. Becky Bailey

Shift

Safety

Safety first: Physical and emotional

Change

The change must start with us and then generate change in others.

Relationships

Relationships are the key to willingness and change.

Conflict

Seeing conflict as a lack of a skill so it can become and opportunity to teach

Focus

Focusing our attention on what we want.

Brain Science

Survival State

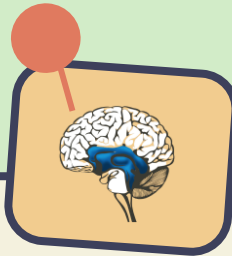

Brain Stem

Developmental Need:

Safety

Looks like: Hiding,
fighting surrender,
physical reactions

Message: Am I Safe?

Emotional State

Limbic System

Developmental Need:

Connection

Looks Like: Back talk, sass, yelling, verbal
reactions

Message: Am I loved?

Executive State

Frontal Lobe

Developmental Need:

Problem Solving

Opportunities

Looks Like: Wisdom
and unlimited skills

Message: What Can I Learn?

Our Plan

Train the Trainer

Schools create CDAT team.
Provide presentation and resources through Schoology.

CDAT

School team provides training to grade level teams and begins roll out of structures in the school.

Support

Meet with CDAT monthly to offer support, feedback and set up structures.
